

THE PROVINCES AND TERRITORIES OF CANADA

Map Mysteries: Use the following directions to find three attractions in Canada!

1.

This town built a Flying Saucer Landing Pad in 1967. Members of the community donated the $11,000 it cost and the town provided the land. The information center has photos of crop circles, supposed UFOs (unidentified flying objects) and information on hoaxes. To find St. Paul's Flying Saucer Landing Pad, first find Ottawa, Canada's capital city on the map. Move three squares north and then three squares west. Move south two squares. The dot marks St. Paul, in the province of _____.

2.

George Carmack dreamt of two beautiful fish covered with gold nuggets rather than scales. He took this as a sign that he should look for gold in the Klondike River. On August 16, 1896 he and four companions pulled the first gold nuggets out of the river. The Klondike Gold Rush drew 100,000 prospectors to the gold fields of Canada. To find Rabbit Creek, where gold was first found, start at St. Paul, move east one square, north two squares and then west three squares. The dot marks Rabbit Creek, in the province of _____.

3.

Hundreds of polar bears live near this little seaport on the western shore of the Hudson Bay waiting for the winter months when the ice hardens and allows them to travel. People come from all over the world to watch them. To find the seaport of Churchill, start at Rabbit Creek, go five squares east and then one south. Now go two squares west. The dot marks Churchill, in the province of _____.
